2. General Info-About Cyprus

On Cyprus, racing specialists, touring cyclists and mountain bikers will all find just the right exciting challenges, in a Mediterranean climate with a delightful combination of sea, beaches and mountains. The island, which is located on the eastern end of the Mediterranean Sea, has perfect weather for cycling, especially in the months between October and April, when temperatures range between 15°C and 25°C, while annual rainfall is also quite low in comparison to European countries. What's more, unlike other European or Mediterranean countries, the strong headwinds that are a bane to cyclists, here are rare.

But what makes Cyprus stand out as a heaven for cyclists is its compactness. It is like a whole continent condensed into a small island. The third largest island of the Mediterranean, Cyprus combines attractive beaches with pine-clad peaks, busy modern Europeanized towns and tranquil old stone villages, vineyards, olive groves and ancient ruins. The short distances mean that there are rapid changes of terrain entailing a variety of different road surfaces over short distances.

Within the space of 10 km you can go from rocky to clay and steep to flat, enabling you to experience all surfaces within a short period of time and making the island into one huge mountain bike arena. Bikers can hone their skills on the unique trails of the mountains of Troodos and Macheras or in the Akamas peninsula, riding steep slopes that have been ridden and tested by many world champions. Quiet rural roads, with excellent quality tarmac, well signposted and with limited car traffic add to the attraction. In addition, there are no legal barriers to cycling anywhere on the island except of course on motorways.

Distance: 6,1km(lap)

Total Ascent: +187m/lap

Tech/Feed Zones: 1,4km and 4km

Although the course was rebuilt almost from scratch for the 2011 race, it is based on the same course that has been used for the XCO stage since the very first edition of the Afxentia stage race back in 1997. It consists of singletrack and forest roads and has the form of a loop inside another loop using a permanent bridge, specially built for the race to connect the two loops.

The start/finish area is located at the “Mantra tou Kampiou” picnic area. Each lap is 6.1 km long and the total ascent per lap is 185m. The riders will complete a start loop before they enter the normal lap. During the start loop the riders avoid entering technical section 1 and 2 of the full lap!

Riders will be pulled for 80% or lapped. They will still get classification

Winner in Men elite in 2019 was Wawak Bartomiej in 1h:24m:52s and in the Women Elite race was Annika Langvad in 1h:19m:57s.
